Our office devil respectfully requests that the "Small Grain" "Nemo" controversy be called off, as it is getting entirely too warm for him. Several torrid effusions have now made their appearance—red hot—too hot for that devil—and more are reported en route. So in order to make the coal dealers happy and allow winter to come, we will not publish them. Write something about the "Inwardness of the Outwardness," or "Correlative Substances."

The Second Congregation Church at Falmouth, Mass., built in 1821, was turned end for end twenty years later to get a bequest of $10,000 left by a member who did not like the way the church stood, and a monument has now been erected with an inscription stating these facts.

Now that Malmaison has reverted to the French nation, possessors of objects once associated with it all the world over are showing themselves quite eager to restore them to the place so inseparably associated with the sad romance of Bonaparte's unfortunate Empress. The Bonaparte legend may be dead enough; the Josephine legend is not. Her harp is the latest object to find its way back.

THOUGHTS WORTH READING.

Keep on, and keep on keeping on. He is easily pleased who satisfies himself.

Don't borrow trouble; the interest is too heavy.

Suspect evil speakers and be not over credulous of them.
Charity thinketh no evil, nor easily and hastily believeth it.

It takes the evidence of two or three witnesses to prove a man's virtues, but one is enough to fasten his vices upon him.

A fragrant flower fills the house with fragrance. You do not need to see it to know that it is near. So with Christian example.

Resolve from this time with all your spiritual powers to be devoted to the Holy Ghost.

God counts as done to Himself all that we do to our neighbor for the love of Him.

There are, it is said, a few people who really know it all; but it is hinted that they are not pleasant persons to live with and no wonder. Just imagine associating continually with one to whom you can tell nothing new!

The love of money is the ruling passion of our progress. Progress in what? In science, in art, in learning, in civic virtue, in public and private morality? No; our boast is that we make more money than any other nation on the face of the earth. This mad race for wealth will, unless checked, be our undoing. What we need today is a great moral and religious awakening of the people, a quickening of the national conscience and a strengthening of the nation's honor, so that it may be well with us and our country in coming years of this twentieth century.—Rev. Morgan M. Sheedy.

There are many schools and methods extant for cultivating memory, all excellent in certain directions, but there are some things to forget if one would attain happiness. Among others forget your neighbor's faults, the slander heard, the unpleasant peculiarities of friends, personal quarrels and temptations. Obliterate everything disagreeable from yesterday and start out with a clean page for today, keeping in memory only those things which are lovely and lovable.

The sight of ourselves causes trouble, which is the just punishment of our self love. On the contrary the sight of God gives peace, which is the compensation of pure love, and the foretaste of paradise.—Fenelon.

DON'T LIKE RED HILL.

Editor News:
I write a few more lines to inform the people of this place that I haven't yet turned out to be as big a fool as some suspect I am. Some people here think they can just tell me anything and make me believe it, but I want to tell them that they may think I believe their tales, but I have got sense enough not to be made a fool of.

I know some think I am not of a sensible generation but I keep my sense back in the top of my head to use as is necessary. I don't say all the people of this vicinity consider me senseless, but I don't believe in using all my sense anyway, unless I can put it to an important use. I believe in using sense where it is important to use it and not to use it where it isn't needed.

I want to tell the people of Red Hill that I am not wanting to leave this place because I'm scared and afraid to stay here. It's because I don't want to stay in such a place as this. I always treat people with respect if they will treat me the same, but if they don't they needn't think I'm going to pet and kiss them to get them to like me.

I used to live this place all right, but now I am out with it. People here try to be gigantic. They think they are immense but I don't think so. I believe people ought to treat each other right and not be so furious with each other. I can't help getting offended at the way people treat me at this place. I believe in giving people a good recommendation. Some people here treat me excellently and others don't. WM. WALLACE.

Ganderbone's Oct. Forecast

Copyrighted 1907 by C. H. RIETH.

Welcome, welcome, sweet October, when the quail shall whistle shrill, when the coal man gets in action with his peck little bill; when the frost and pumpkin sings the old familiar strains, and the football gladiators scramble one another's brains.

Doubly welcome, hallowed season, when the wild goose travels space, when the hunter in the wildwood shoots the rabbit in the face. When the last years' hat made over Shows up in the new fall stock, And the bug-fed turkey shudders

Everytime he sees the block. Secretary Taff will be the leading presidential candidate for the month. He will reach Japan on his trip around the world, and when he steps ashore, the island will tip up. The Mikado will have him lifted to the Imperial Roof Garden with block and tackle, and the populace will hold the roof up while Bill and Matsunoto eat rice cakes together and open a few bottles of sake to the continued amity of nations.

In our own country, President Roosevelt will proceed early in the month upon his annual fresh water cruise. He will go down the Mississippi from Keokuk to Memphis, while cheering multitudes congregate on the banks and count his teeth. Uncle Joe Cannon will buy another thousand feet of lightning rod, backwater cakes will renew their tug of war with Epsom salts in the innards of man, and the cost of living will take a bird's eye view of the economic proposition.

The autumn night inspiring shall give a little longer, and the breath of fall on old sweet shall grow a little stronger. The husbandman shall sell his hogs and think to prosper on it, but the good housewife will take the dough and buy a winter bonnet.

County fairs will be in full blast. The heavy fragrance of roasted peanuts will decoy the cautious nicker from the pants pocket of the loving swain. The toy balloon will drag the small boy around the grounds. The man with the long awning on his cap will sit on the tail of the scow-footed trotter and slap her around the track with a barrel stave. The man in red underwear will rise in a balloon hanging by his toe nails, and the family that Roosevelt is enthusiastic about will weave through the crowd tied together on a long clothes line.

The husky hunker in the corn Will trill his little ballad, The rascal in the forest deep Will eat persimmon salad.

The robin redbreast, growing chilled, Will slowly southward flutter, And the angels in the skies will catch The scent of apple butter.

The moon will be full on the 21st. Campers will go off to the woods to play poker all night and sleep all day. Hog killing time will fill the hog with concern for his near future, and he will hustle around after acorns in philosophical enjoyment of his last few days.

The football roster, full of root, will go off on his Autumn tot, the player with the college hair, the while the honest and truthful blare, will butt around till he is thrown and someone breaks his collar bone. The lusty sound of rah rah rabs will urge the fell and bloody cause; the girls in mass and colors come, will sing and scream and swallow gum. The giant full-back, fierce and stout, will pick a little fellow out, kick in his slats and change his face, and maul him up and down the place, and when the foe shall cease to breathe, will proudly claim the victor's wreath.

The farmer with the mortgage Who is prone to giving notes Will figure up the proceeds From his wheat and corn and oats.

And wonder if his cash in hand Will pull him out the hole Or whether he will have to give A mortgage on his soul.

The hunting season will keep the rabbit on the wing and the quail on the jump. The crack shot from town will range into the country with his butt proof gun and his hammerless corduroys. He will flush a bird and almost hit a cow, and then buy his game from a native who sports a bored out army musket.

The Amalgamated Game Self Preservation Society will soon require all hunters to carry a large license tag so that all game may know when it is being legally shot at.

The baseball fan will lose his job, the high ball field is broke, the moth-ball crank is now abroad spread in odors of sick smoke. The ice cream soda has fizzed out, the ice man slacks his pace, the small boys save their nickies now to buy a comic face. For Halloween will soon be here with pumpkin spoons and pranks, and if the hoodlums pass us up we surely may give thanks. Be glad, be glad, the worst is last. The next few weeks look good.

The tramp has quit the road because It's time for saving money. November crisp is on the way With cold Thanksgiving air, And the President will set the day In time for turkey prayers.

PLEASANT RIDGE.

Special to the News.

Making sorghum is the order of the day here.
Several from here are attending the protracted meeting at Whitwell, conducted by Rev. Hunt. They are having a good meeting. J. H. Barker professed religion and was baptized in Sequachee river near the iron bridge Sunday afternoon. A large crowd attended.

Most all of the boys that left here sometime back have returned home after spending what money they had. One fellow, who belongs to a good family, was seen the other day sitting on the railroad and seemed to be in trouble. When asked by a neighbor who was passing what was wrong, he said that he left home a short while back and when he left he had $100 and a new suit of clothes and he had spent all of his money and his clothes were worn out and he hated to face the old man. Boys, you had better stay at home and help your parents. Be it ever so humble there is no place like home.

The fellow that left with tears in his eyes when he told his girl goodbye, after staying away eight or ten days, was seen coming back home singing that good old song, "Home, Sweet Home."

"Old Brin," of Hick's Chapel, says he attended a party at Julie Pickett's the other night and when the game got in full blast and "P. W." got tuned up that he forgot that he belonged to the Epworth League and got in the ring and never had such a good time. We are afraid if "Old Brin" can't resist such a temptation as that he has n't got the kind of religion.

J. D. Defur has purchased a new buggy and was out with his wife, buggy riding Sunday.

Mrs. Lester French was out horseback riding Monday.

G. W. White is making sorghum for J. A. Grayson this week.

Robert Pickett says he sure can dance for he learned from "Old Brin."

Ye writer was at Dr. N. B. Moore's the other night and heard some good music on the phonograph. We always feel like we are at home when we are at the doctor's.

Well, we thought the school house controversy was over but noticed in the News that "Representative" has thought of something else. He says now that the public hasn't got any deed to the property at Hick's Chapel. It don't look like the people would go to the trouble and expense of building a school house on somebody else's property. Guess "Representative" will be next that there isn't any such place as Hick's Chapel.

Robert Pickett says he is going to Tracy City as its cool out there.

J. D. Defur and wife were visiting on the Ridge Sunday.

Would like to hear from "Dofetchit," Jonah.

Tatesville.

Special to the News.

There will be a debate here next Saturday night. We are looking for an interesting time as there are some able speakers on both sides.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Tate and W. M. Stump had a scrap here last week. Here is how it happened as I got it from Mr. Stump. Mr. Stump was moving his little store away from here to a point on the new railroad near Tracy City and he had sent a man by the name of Schrumm with a team after his cabbage here, and Mr. and Mrs. Tate refused to let Schrumm have Stump's cabbage. On returning with the empty wagon Schrumm met Stump coming out. He brought him back and on entering his cabbage patch Mrs. Tate commenced a row with Stump and Mr. Tate approached from behind Stump with a double barrel shot gun and it was cocked. Mr. Schrumm holled, "Look out, Stump." He looked at once and made a spring as Tate leveled the gun. Stump was just in time to save his life. He reached Tate and knocked the gun above his head about six inches as it fired. At this instant Mrs. Tate ran in and grabbed hold of the gun too. Here a scuffle began for the gun. In the scuffle Tate discharged the other barrel, barely missing Stump's head. Stump finally succeeded in taking the gun away from them, throwing them both down. As soon as Tate got up he got a club and struck Stump a blow on the back of the head, stunning him. He made a second blow as soon as he could but Stump knocked this lick off, but it almost broke his arm. He took the stick away from the old man and the fight ended with several hot words. The old gentleman and lady are considerably banged up. They say Stump knocked them both down and struck them several blows and kicks.

Isaac Frazier passed through town en route to Little Sequachee.

R. J. White and Uncle Tom went to Whitwell and back home in time to take dinner with their wives. Uncle Tom is now selling out to go West.

J. L. and J. C. Savage were in town from Gage.

R. L. Brown and Z. F. Abernathy and two sisters were in town from Peak mountain.

Gilbert Ownsby and brother, who are visiting from Dunlap, were in town.

J. C. Ross and his uncle, George, from Kentucky, were in town this week.

Mrs. Allie Smith and daughter, were in town for the first time in two months.

Luther Overturn has gone back to Chattanooga to work.

M. E. Cobb from Chattanooga, is here to buy timber for a stove mill and says if he can get enough timber the mill that was once here will be moved back here and will pay more for the timber and will take it cleaner.

Ye writer has been chilling, but is better now. Watchman.

We are sorry to note that our school closes Friday. We wish it would last for a while longer, as we have some good teachers this year.

Hugh O'Neal is on the sick list. Will O'Neal and L. W. Thomas say they are going to Sequachee before long. I guess they have something spotted down there.

Tombs Andes called at Ike Ashburn's Sunday.

I saw in last week's News that "Representative" had found a place where the people lived until they were killed and where they needed no doctors. Now, "Representative," I want you to tell me where that place is as I would like to go there.

I saw in last week's issue where W. M. Wallace said that it was against the law to marry without the consent of two. I am just like him about that, but I don't think there is any danger of his marrying at present, anyway. Now, Mr. Wallace, you had better let the marrying alone for a while. As the old saying is girls marry for sense and money, and boys marry because they have no sense.

Shelton O'Neal will move to our neighborhood before long.

Ask Chas Payne how he likes to pass Mr. Price's and see him smile.

A crowd of boys went to the box supper at Caroline Chapel Saturday night and report a nice time.

Rollie Dykes, of Dunlap, is visiting friends and relatives here this week.

L. W. Thomas went to Dunlap Monday and said he was leaving this place to return no more.

Rollie Dykes called on his girl Sunday afternoon.

Lewis Thomas was seen going up the road Sunday.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely. Let everybody come.
